“Seeing in a New Way”

Sculptures by Constance Demuth Berg

September 10 – October 28, 2010 / Opening Reception: Sept. 10, 6–9 p.m.

CHICAGO — Woman Made Gallery is proud to present “Seeing in a New Way,” a solo exhibition with sculptural works by Illinois artist Constance Demuth Berg.

“I recycle and build from discarded ‘thrown away’ pieces, such as parts of antique furniture, old tools, the banister of an old stairway, wooden molds, etc. Some pieces were discovered on a mountain road in Provence; other shapes caught my eye in flea markets and antique shops. As opposed to the ordinary, practical past use of the wood or metal, I see the forms in a new way. I take them as I find them, and am challenged and disciplined to work within the limitations of their design to assemble a sculpture in which each shape seems to belong to another by coming together into a final harmonious composition.”

Constance DeMuth Berg has received her education at various distinguished institutions, including the International Beaux Arts School in Provence, France, Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, and MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Illinois. She has taught at Northern University of Iowa in Cedar Falls, Iowa, at the University of Florida in Gainesville, and at Penn State University, Pennsylvania. Her work has been exhibited throughout the United States, from Galesburg, Illinois to Washington, DC at Gallery 10. DeMuth Berg is the 2007 Distinguished Alumni Award Recipient at MacMurray College.
